

6213 Material and product conformity - an introduction

Objective

You know the most important background and objectives of the European and global material and product conformity requirements, such as REACH and RoHS, the Waste Framework Directive with the reporting obligation in the SCIP database, but also pure substance restrictions in the USA such as TSCA and in other countries.

You are generally familiar with process flows, understand your data responsibilities as a link in the supply chain, and know when the time is right to start and evaluate reporting in systems.

You know the requirements associated with the systems and the global issues.
