

6216 – Understanding and implementing the EU POP Regulation

Background

Why are persistent organic pollutants (POPs) so dangerous? POPs are chemicals such as pesticides (DDT), industrial chemicals or unintentional by-products from industrial processes (e.g. dioxins and furans) that can spread worldwide across all national borders through water or air, among other things. This means that POPs can reach even areas where they themselves have never been used or manufactured.

With the POPs Regulation, the EU aims to protect human health as well as the environment as a whole. It sets out how internationally defined legislation on POPs is to be translated into specific control measures.

Objective

After this course, you will know the background and objectives of the European Regulation on Persistent Organic Pollutants (EU POP Regulation 2019/1021) and the resulting consequences for your products. You can assess whether your products comply with the regulations of the POP Regulation or whether there is an urgent need for action.

Contents

- Definition of POP (Persistent Organic Pollutants)
- Background and objectives of the POP Regulation
- Relation with REACH
- Prohibited and restricted substances
- Practical examples
- Special obligations in dealing with the POP Regulation
- Implementation of POP in IMDS

Teaching method

Lecture with demonstration

Prerequisites

Basic knowledge of materials and general knowledge of how to deal with material compliance

Duration

120 minutes plus break

Max. number of participants:

14

Certificate

As a participant in our training courses, you will receive a personal certificate with which you can prove your qualification.

Training documents

You will receive a personal copy of the presentation accompanying the lesson. Further information can be found on our website.

Further trainings

Current prices and dates can be found on our website: www.imds-professional.com

Exclusive trainings

You can also book this seminar exclusively. Your advantage: You determine the location, date and number of participants and can set priorities in terms of content. On request, we are happy to take over the entire organization.

Please request your personal offer:

Phone +49 6083 91 30 30
info@imds-professional.com