

The Biocidal Products Regulation (BPR, Regulation [EU] No. 528/2012) has been in force since 2013, governing the marketing and use of products designed to protect humans, animals, materials, or goods from harmful organisms such as pests and bacteria. But what does this mean in practice for companies in the automotive supply chain? This webinar will provide the answers.

>> OBJECTIVE

In this course, you will learn what biocides are, what the European Biocidal Products Regulation involves, and what it means for your company. We will also cover upcoming deadlines and their implications. In addition, you will learn how to identify and report biocides in IMDS.

Your advantage: You know how to safely identify and report biocides in IMDS, enabling you to implement requirements efficiently and in compliance with regulations.
